

Christ Church Liverpool

A £4.5m project to secure a permanent gospel home at 145 Edge Lane: a base to reach an unreached city, train the next generation of gospel workers, and multiply churches across the North West and beyond.

Liverpool is one of the great cities of the UK, and one where the gospel is largely unheard. In a city of half a million, the number of people regularly sitting under Bible teaching is measured in the low thousands. Since 2003, Christ Church Liverpool has grown to a family of 250, planted or helped revitalise six churches, and sent workers across the world, all without a building of its own. Edge Lane changes what is possible.

WHY IT MATTERS

Infrastructure for multiplication

→ A strategic site

On a main artery into the city centre, in Liverpool's fast-growing Knowledge Quarter, alongside the university, hospital and research district.

→ A church at capacity

There is no room to welcome more people on a Sunday. A 400-seat auditorium removes the ceiling on growth, staffing and sending.

→ A seven-day gospel hub

Courses, youth work, community meals, Hope Café, training and prayer, with one visible, welcoming address open through the week.

→ A training and sending base

Home to theological training and the Alliance for Transatlantic Theological Training (AT3), raising up planters and workers for the region and the nations.
